Paper, and beyond

President Kenzo Noguchi

The Japan Pulp and Paper Group is currently expanding into new fields of business in line with its Mid-term Business Plan 2016. Following investment in our recycled household paper business, our new paper mill in Shizuoka Prefecture started operations during the previous fiscal year, as did the Group's third large-scale solar power generation plant, this time in Hokkaido. In the United States, meanwhile, we further bolstered our non-Japan wholesaling business by converting group company Gould Paper Corporation into a wholly owned subsidiary. The Group's third biomass power generation plant is also due to come on line in Iwate Prefecture during the current fiscal year.

Thus, stage one of the Japan Pulp and Paper Group's expansion into new business fields is largely complete. We now move on to the second stage, which requires us to further enhance efficiency in our key Japan wholesaling business, while focusing on making the most of our four new business mainstays, comprising non-Japan wholesaling, paper manufacturing and processing (centered on household papers), resources and environmental business, and real estate leasing. We will make these five businesses into reliable earnings drivers for the Group, aiming to rapidly achieve our current target of ¥10 billion in ordinary income, and thereafter to attain our next target, the business metric of 8% in ROE.

We are always surrounded by paper in our daily lives, and I am convinced paper is a material with great potential. Japan Pulp and Paper Company Limited and its group companies will continue to contribute to society through a business focused on our key product, paper, while exploring the infinite possibilities of paper and what lies beyond it.

Strengthening Businesses in the United States and Europe

In the United States, one of the Japan Pulp and Paper Group's principal business regions in its non-Japan wholesaling business segment, the remaining shares of major U.S. paper merchant Gould Paper were acquired to make the company a wholly owned subsidiary in 2015.

With the aim to reinforce its overseas business activities, one of its current focus areas, Japan Pulp and Paper is working to expand its purchasing and sales bases on a global scale, and as a part of these efforts, had acquired 51% of Gould Paper's shares through Japan Pulp & Paper (U.S.A.) Corp. in 2010.

By making Gould Paper a wholly owned subsidiary, Japan Pulp and Paper is working to leverage its abundant bases, human resources and know-how to strengthen its businesses in the European and U.S. markets, which are considered to be important markets in its overseas business strategy, as well as striving to further harness synergies within the Group to promote further growth of its overseas business activities.

Phoenix serves as a logistics base connecting the West Coast and the Central United States, and in recent years has been experiencing continuous population growth. The Phoenix Plant was opened to bolster the Group's wastepaper procurement capabilities centered on old corrugated cardboard, which is anticipated to increase in line with the increase in population.

Positioning the wastepaper recycling business as one of the pillars of the Group's businesses, Japan Pulp and Paper will work to further develop the business both in and outside Japan.
